IMPASSE REACHED IN BISHOP CANNON CASE

PRELATE WALKS OUT FROM SENATE BODY HEARING

REFUSED TO TESTIFY FURTHER
ABOUT HIS CAMPAIGN
ACTIVITIES

CHAIRMAN CARAWAY TO DECIDE
WHAT TO DO FURTHER IN MATTER

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 6.—Chairman Caraway of the senate lobby committee was hastening back to Washington today to face the impasse his committee has reached in the case of Bishop James Cannon, Jr. Meanwhile committee members here were gathering a connected story of the Methodist prelate's dramatic fight against Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential nominee in 1928.

The bold attitude which Cannon displayed yesterday when he walked out of the committee room refusing to testify about his campaign activities, will go unanswered by the committee until Caraway arrives to decide whether he wants to proceed against the bishop for contempt or take a new tack in the investigation.

At present there seems little likelihood that the committee will seek to have Cannon cited for contempt or seek to trace any further his campaign expenditures reportable under the corrupt practices act.

Whether notice will be taken of the bishop's defiance of a senatorial committee will probably rest with Caraway, who has been at home in Arkansas.

Caraway indicated before he left Arkansas yesterday that he thought his committee powerless to inquire into Cannon's transactions if the bishop persists in his declination to tell of them.

When he arrives the committee will meet to determine its course of action. It may decide to run down further the records of the Jameson-Cannon transactions, or it may decide that now with congress about to close, the time has been reached to stop the matter. It could, if it thought wise, refer the evidence to prosecuting authorities. It could cite the bishop to the senate for contempt. If it undertook any of these courses, a long, drawn out conflict would be assured.

Secretary of State Stimson's effort to clarify replacement clauses of the London naval treaty to the satisfaction of the senate foreign relations committee awaited senatorial scrutiny today.

Texts of notes exchanged between Tokio, London and Washington were made public last night in response to senatorial objections that Stimson had brought from London a vaguely worded treaty whose phraseology might be interpreted in a manner disadvantageous to the United States.

The senate also had before it today another verbal but insistent demand from the White House for treaty action before senators go home. In reply, Senator Johnson, republican, California, called on his colleagues to resist coercion of the senate. Johnson reiterated his insistence that the foreign relations committee should be given all secret dispatches in the state department's possession bearing on the treaty.

Johnson said the senate shared equally with the executive department in making treaties and was entitled to ample time and all information before exercising its duties. Pressure of business, he explained, had prevented all but a few senators from familiarizing themselves with the London pact.

Senator Brookhart, republican, of Iowa, submitted for the congressional record today an affidavit made by a Dallas, Texas, ambulance driver alleging he found "two full pints of white liquor" in a Dallas hotel suite occupied by Republican national committeeman R. E. Creager of Texas.

The Iowa senator read into the record yesterday extracts from testimony taken in the senate investigation of southern patronage which the senator said indicated "that Mr. Creager was protecting certain hotels in liquor violations."

"I think this evidence is sufficient," he declared, "to warrant the department of justice investigating Creager's protection of the liquor business in Texas. I also want to call the president's attention to the situation."

A bill to subsidize American shipping interests was before the senate today while the house, with most of its important legislation cleared up, considered minor calendar bills.

The shipping bill, which has been pending for some time, contains a clause giving the owners of former U. S. shipping boats the vessels priority as bidders for ocean mail contracts.

The tariff conferees planned to meet again today to make some minor adjustments in the rate section of the tariff bill.

A meeting of the senate agricultural committee to seek facts on the alleged sale of impure ergot and other drugs was scheduled for today.

The naval affairs committee planned a meeting today to continue hearings on the selection of a west coast dirigible site.

11 INJURED IN TRAFFIC MISHAPS IN LAST 12 HOURS

Minneapolis, June 6.—(U.P.)—A Duluth girl was dead, a Minneapolis youngster was critically injured and 11 persons were injured in traffic accidents during the last 12 hours.

Violet Hanson, Duluth, 20, was killed last night when the car in which she was riding struck a street car in the Duluth loop. Five persons were injured in the accident, one, John Hartman, Minneapolis, seriously.

Harold Pearson, 9, was critically hurt in a Minneapolis accident. The automobile in which he was riding with his mother and father and four other children was struck broadside by a second car and the children scattered over the pavement. The child suffered a fractured skull.

All the children and the parents were injured. Two other persons were injured in Minneapolis accidents and one was hurt in St. Paul.

TONG WARFARE IN NEW YORK

THIRD CHINESE IN TWO DAYS
SLAIN IN METROPOLITAN
DISTRICT

New York, June 6.—(U.P.)—Tong warfare continued today in the Metropolitan district when the third Chinese in two days was slain.

Louis Lee, 43, a laundryman of Brooklyn and believed to be a member of the Hip Sing Tong, was shot to death in a room in the rear of his laundry in the Brownville section of Brooklyn.

Lee's death followed closely those of Ah Yung, who was shot in his tenement house yesterday and Charles Eng Sing, who was murdered by henchmen in his Newark laundry yesterday. Both of the men slain yesterday were said to be of the Hip Sing Tong. Fearing three killings, police today decided to add a score of detectives to the extra number of police who were assigned to work with the regular force in the Chinatown district.

United States Attorney Tuttle was expected to ask rival Tong leaders to confer with him and Dr. Samuel Young, the Chinese consul general here.

'SALLY GAMBLE'S' LETTER STIRS SENATE TO REAL LAUGHTER

Washington, June 6.—(U.P.)—The senate was thrown into confusion and laughter today when Senator Norris, republican, Neb., read a letter signed "Sally Gamble" demanding that Norris get her husband out of jail because he "only gambled on the stock market as did Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and Chairman Claudius Houston of the republican national committee."

The letter, purporting to have come from Texas, bore no address, and Senator Heflin, democrat, Ala., immediately demanded to know what senator had written it, charging inferentially that it was spurious.

Senator La Follette, republican, Wis., displayed such mirth he nearly fell from his chair.

No remarks other than the brief unanswered inquiry of Heflin were made concerning the episode.

STATE SAFETY COUNCIL BRANCH AT ST. CLOUD

St. Paul, June 6.—(U.P.)—Formation of a local branch of the State Safety Council at St. Cloud was announced today by Frank W. Matson, railroad and warehouse commissioner and president of the Minnesota Safety Council. Matson will go to Austin Monday to form a branch there.

tional committeeman from Texas, today staunchly defended him against the charges of Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, that he protected Dallas hotels in liquor violations.

"The charges Senator Brookhart made are not true," Mrs. Creager said. "He waited until my husband left Washington before he dared make such absurd accusations."

Memphis, Tenn., June 6.—G. T. Fitzhugh, prominent lay member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and a leader in the fight to press various charges against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., at the recent Dallas convention, attacked the bishop today for "walking out of the senate lobby committee hearing."

"Bishop Cannon set an evil example of scoffing the law and defied constituted authority" by his action before the committee, Fitzhugh said. "Cannon quails before any serious investigation of charges against himself, when required to meet them with sworn testimony instead of ex-parte statements to the press."

Car Crashes Into Duluth Streetcar, 3 Young People Fatally Hurt, Fourth Killed Instantly

CAR COLLIDED HEAD ON WITH THE STREETCAR

ACCIDENT OCCURRED SHORTLY BEFORE MIDNIGHT
IN DULUTH

MISS VIOLET HANSON, 20, DULUTH, MET INSTANT DEATH

Duluth, Minn., June 6.—(U.P.)—Injured when their car crashed head-on into a streetcar, three young people died in the hospital today while a fourth was killed instantly in the crash last night.

The dead are:
Violet Hanson, 20, Duluth.
Fred Hanson, 18, Duluth.
Mrs. Mary Stewney, 29, Duluth.
John Hartman, Minneapolis.

Three others who were injured seriously are in the hospital.
Seven young people were in the car when it collided head-on with the streetcar. Miss Hanson was instantly killed in the accident and the others were taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

The accident occurred shortly before midnight. Hanson, Mrs. Stewney and Hartman died of their injuries today.

BORAH ASKS DATA ABOUT NAVAL TREATY

Washington, June 6.—(U.P.)—Secretary of State Stimson announced today he had replied to the request of Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee for secret dispatches exchanged between Washington and London preliminary to the London naval conference. Stimson said Borah would make the letter public and did not say whether he would grant the request which was made on behalf of Senator Hiram Johnson, republican, Calif., leading opponent of the naval treaty.

4 Sentenced to Death for Murder of Indian Constables

Bombay, India, June 6.—(U.P.)—Four persons were sentenced to death today in Sholapur for the murder of several constables killed during the recent rioting there.

Sentence was pronounced in sessions court by Judge Nijavadia, a native jurist.

JULES PASCIN, NOTED PAINTER, COMMITTS SUICIDE

Paris, June 6.—(U.P.)—Jules Pascin, 45, who was hailed in Paris as America's best painter, was found dead last night, his body hanging from a rafter in his studio. Physicians said he had committed suicide Monday.

SEEK 3 MEN IN FIRE SWEEP AREA

MISSING SINCE MONDAY IN FIRE
RUINED THUNDER BAY
DISTRICT

Port Arthur, Ont., June 6.—(U.P.)—Searching parties today scattered through the fire devastated forest of Thunder Bay seeking three men, missing since Monday when they fled before flames that destroyed their backwoods homes at Fleet, west of here.

Settlers today were returning to their homes as the danger of further fires seemed past after the quenching rains of the past three days.

Further reports of damage to timber lands continued to arrive but no real estimate of damage to the forest of western Ontario and Manitoba can be made for some time, rangers said.

The heaviest losses appeared to have been sustained by the large pulp and paper concerns which saw vast tracts of reserve forest lands swept by fire.

Period for Compensation Applications of War Veterans Extended

Washington, June 6.—(U.P.)—The period for applications of world war veterans for compensation was extended from 1930 to 1935 in a bill signed by President Hoover.

PACKING COMPANY HEAD, EMPLOYE FACE CHARGES

LINKED IN ALLEGED INSURANCE
MURDER PLOT IN TOPEKA,
KANSAS

WHICH CAUSED DEATH OF VICE PRESIDENT OF THE CONCERN

Topeka, Kas., June 8.—(U.P.)—The president of a packing company and one of his employees were linked here today in an alleged insurance murder plot which caused the death of the vice-president of the concern.

First degree murder charges have been filed against Louis H. Kimmel, president of the Kaw Packing Company, and Virgil Pointer, handy man in the company shops. Both were free under $25,000 bond.

An amazing story of a plot in which Kimmel attempted to secure ready cash for his company by collecting $30,000 insurance on the life of Roy Kramer, the vice-president, was told by Pointer in a purported confession to county authorities.

Pointer said Kimmel had promised him an "easy job for life" if he would perpetrate the murder of Kramer. He readily confessed to the actual slaying, according to Glenn Logan, county attorney. He was arrested when discovered buying a high-priced automobile which he said was being paid for by Kimmel.

Kimmel had made no statement today except to issue a blanket denial of Pointer's charges.

Kimmel was free today on $25,000 bond posted by his father, H. H. Kimmel, wealthy farmer and banker. Pointer remained in jail. Their preliminary trials were set for June 17.

LINDBERGH'S FLY IN A NEW TYPE OF LOW-WING MONOPLANE

Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., June 6.—(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took advantage of a warm spring day today to go flying in a new type low-wing monoplane.

They left Teterboro airport and to Metropolitan airport at Newark where the plane was refueled and they left again. They returned to Teterboro about noon and left by automobile for Englewood.

The couple sat side by side in the cockpit of the new plane.

JAMES M. COX FAVORS REPEAL OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Columbus, O., June 6.—(U.P.)—James M. Cox of Dayton, newspaper publisher and democratic nominee for president in 1920, was listed today as favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Cox made clear his position at a state-wide democratic rally here last night. He referred to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's stand for repeal in his campaign for the United States senate from New Jersey, and said that Morrow's distinguished status as a citizen and diplomat entitled him to a hearing.

"I unhesitatingly favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," Cox said. "As between the old saloon order and the present set-up, I would prefer the latter, but we all prefer not being compelled to choose between those two extremes."

BRITISH NOT TO COMPROMISE WITH GANDHI

READY TO TAKE MORE STRINGENT
MEASURES TO CHECK
INDIAN REVOLT

REBELLION IS SERIOUS MATTER
AND MAY LEAD TO VIOL-ENCE SOON

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Simla, India, June 6.—The British government in India has no intention whatever of compromising with Mahatma Gandhi's movement for independence, and is ready to take even more stringent measures than in the past to check its development, the United Press learned from an authoritative source today.

The government realizes fully that the rebellion is a serious matter, and that it may yet lead to violence, the United Press' informant said, but it has every confidence that the forces now in India will be able to cope with whatever situation occurs.

The informant, whose name cannot be given because of his position, outlined to this correspondent the government's attitude toward the campaign and its intentions. He emphasized that the government was confident it would ultimately crush the lawless phases of the movement.

Gandhi's objectives in the passive resistance campaign so far have not been reached, in the government's opinion, evidence by the fact that administrative functions are continuing as usual, even in the most affected areas, such as the Gujarat district. The chief results have been a spirit of lawlessness, defiance of order, hostility to the government and racial hatred.

Those results, in the government's opinion, will impede India's progress towards self-government, and at the same time may lead to violence and possibly communal strife. In that connection, the informant pointed out that several bomb factories had been discovered in several parts of India, and attempts already had been made to interrupt communications.

Nevertheless, the government is determined to keep open the road to constitutional orderly advance, and in that connection will go ahead with the round table conference on Indian affairs in London next fall.

The boycott of foreign merchandise, especially of British cotton goods, admittedly has done much harm to business interests, but the government has great confidence that economic laws will break down the boycott, since India cannot sell unless it buys, and therefore, eventually will suffer itself.

The government also feels that the independence leaders have produced no constructive policy, but only a plan for disruption of British rule. Gandhi and his followers have unleashed forces which they are now powerless to control so that the rebellion is drifting gradually from the Gandhi influence into the hands of lawless elements.

The salt tax campaign, with which Gandhi started his movement, had failed completely so far as affecting the government's revenues was concerned. The only effect has been the loss of a few thousands of dollars in revenues.

Even in the Gujarat district, where the movement is strongest and where the boycott of police, revenue officers, and other activities is "fairly bad," the general administration functions are not seriously affected, the government said. Except in that district there have been no troubles with revenues or land tax collections, although it was admitted that there may be later.

British authorities in India are not prepared to predict the eventual outcome, or the length of time that may be necessary to subdue the lawlessness. They apparently feel it may grow worse before finally suppressed, although it was understood they had detected signs of reaction.

STORMS OVER RHONE VALLEY DELAY ZEPPELIN

DIRIGIBLE NOW FLYING OVER
FRANCE TO FRIEDRICH-
SHAFEN

DR. HUGO ECKENER'S ROUTE IS UNCERTAIN AFTER PASSING
VALENCE

Friedrichshafen, Germany, June 6.—(U.P.)—The Graf Zeppelin, completing its spectacular flight to North and South America and return, landed at its home port here at 7:35 P. M. (1:25 P. M. CST.)

A large crowd cheered the zeppelin and its commander, Hugo Eckener, on returning from the most ambitious journey since its flight around the world.

The zeppelin made a triumphant return after dodging a severe storm over the Rhone Valley in France which delayed its progress from Seville to Friedrichshafen.

The dirigible left here on May 18, flew to Seville, then to South America and up to Lakehurst, N. J., crossing the ocean twice and covering a total of probably 15,000 miles.

The zeppelin was towed swiftly into its hangar, within ten minutes after being moored.

After dodging southward in the Rhone Valley to escape the storm, the dirigible crossed the Swiss frontier over Neuchâtel and proceeded to Zurich. When it reached Lake Constance, the storm was far behind and the weather was clear and sunny.

Lyons, France, June 6.—(U.P.)—A violent storm area was descending from the northeast today on the Rhone Valley where the Graf Zeppelin was maneuvering in an effort to find clear sailing en route to the home port, Friedrichshafen.

The weather bureau here warned Dr. Hugo Eckener four times that the storm was approaching but received no word from the dirigible.

An aviator enroute from the north to Marseilles also signalled Dr. Eckener, who began swinging his ship around to escape the fierce storm which was creating havoc with trees and roofs in Lyons.

The dirigible turned about from Valence toward Montellier and Dr. Eckener was expected to make a detour around the storm.

The aviator who warned the dirigible of the coming storm before he landed at Bron Field, near Marseilles, said the Graf Zeppelin was maneuvering easily at the time and was swinging about in its course. All regional radios and airdromes were advised of the situation and were alert to aid the dirigible if the need should arise.

It was recalled that one of the most thrilling episodes in the history of the Graf Zeppelin was enacted above the Rhone in the region where the dirigible was flying today. At that time the craft returning from Spain to Germany with a crippled engine, was brought down near Toulon after a desperate struggle with the elements.

Dr. Eckener had been shifting his course frequently earlier today to find favorable winds. The northeast winds were beating down on the ship as she headed up the valley, sending out regular signals of "All's well." The signals could not be picked up later, however, when the ship was warned of the storm.

PASTOR IS FOUND GUILTY OF ABDUCTION

Alton, Ill., June 6.—(U.P.)—Rev. A. L. Shoemaker, former pastor of the Edwards Street Pentecostal church, was found guilty by a jury in city court today on a charge of abducting Miss Bernice Ford, member of the church choir.

The minimum sentence possible is one year in prison.

The jury had been out since yesterday afternoon, when it returned its verdict at 10:20 a. m. today.

PACKING COMPANY HEAD, EMPLOYEE FACE CHARGES

LINKED IN ALLEGED INSURANCE MURDER PLOT IN TOPEKA, KANSAS

WHICH CAUSED DEATH OF VICE PRESIDENT OF THE CONCERN

Topeka, Kas., June 6.—(U.P.)—The president of a packing company and one of its employees were linked here today in an alleged insurance murder plot which caused the death of the vice-president of the concern.

First degree murder charges have been filed against Louis H. Kimmel, president of the Kaw Packing Company, and Virgil Pointer, handy man in the company shops. Both were free under $25,000 bond.

An amazing story of a plot in which Kimmel attempted to secure ready cash for his company by collecting $30,000 insurance on the life of Roy Kramer, the vice-president, was told by Pointer in a purported confession to county authorities.

Graf Arrives Safely at Lakehurst, N. J.

Droning out of the rising sun, the Graf Zeppelin reached the naval base at Lakehurst, N. J., 67 hours after she had left Pernambuco, Brazil. The drone of her motors could be heard dimly and the sun shot gold fire along her glistening sides as she completed her journey of 12,912 miles from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst. The monster of the air is pictured being moored to the new stub-mast at the Naval Air Station. (Inset) Dr. Hugo Eckener.

JAMES M. COX FAVORS REPEAL OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Columbus, O., June 6.—(U.P.)—James M. Cox of Dayton, newspaper publisher and democratic nominee for president in 1920, was listed today as favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Cox made clear his position at a state-wide democratic rally here last night. He referred to Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow's stand for repeal in his campaign for the United States senate from New Jersey, and said that Morrow's distinguished status as a citizen and diplomat entitled him to a hearing.

"I unhesitatingly favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," Cox said. "As between the old saloon order and the present set-up, I would prefer the latter, but we all prefer not being compelled to choose between those two extremes."

BRITISH NOT TO COMPROMISE WITH GANDHI

READY TO TAKE MORE STRINGENT MEASURES TO CHECK INDIAN REVOLT

REBELLION IS SERIOUS MATTER AND MAY LEAD TO VIOLENCE SOON

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Simla, India, June 6.—The British government in India has no intention whatever of compromising with Mahatma Gandhi's movement for independence, and is ready to take even more stringent measures than in the past to check its development, the United Press learned from an authoritative source today.

The government realizes fully that the rebellion is a serious matter, and that it may yet lead to violence, the United Press informant said, but it has every confidence that the forces now in India will be able to cope with whatever situation occurs.

The informant, whose name cannot be given because of his position, outlined to this correspondent the government's attitude toward the campaign and its intentions. He emphasized that the government was confident it would ultimately crush the lawless phases of the movement.

Gandhi's objectives in the passive resistance campaign so far have not been reached, in the government's opinion, evidence by the fact that administrative functions are continuing as usual, even in the most affected areas, such as the Gujarat district. The chief results have been a spirit of lawlessness, defiance of order, hostility to the government and racial hatred.

Those results, in the government's opinion, will impede India's progress towards self-government, and at the same time may lead to violence and possibly communal strife. In that connection, the informant pointed out that several bomb factories had been discovered in several parts of India, and attempts already had been made to interrupt communications.

Nevertheless, the government is determined to keep open the road to constitutional orderly advance, and in that connection will go ahead with the round table conference on Indian affairs in London next fall.

The boycott of foreign merchandise, especially of British cotton goods, admittedly has done much harm to business interests, but the government has great confidence that economic laws will break down the boycott, since India cannot sell unless it buys, and therefore, eventually will suffer itself.

The government also feels that the independence leaders have produced no constructive policy, but only a plan for disruption of British rule. Gandhi and his followers have unleashed forces which they are now powerless to control so that the rebellion is drifting gradually from the Gandhi influence into the hands of lawless elements.

The salt tax campaign, with which Gandhi started his movement, had failed completely so far as affecting the government's revenues was concerned. The only effect has been the loss of a few thousands of dollars in revenues.

Even in the Gujarat district, where the movement is strongest and where other activities is "fairly bad," the general administration functions are not seriously affected, the government said. Except in that district there have been no troubles with revenues or land tax collections, and it was admitted that there may be later.

British authorities in India are not prepared to predict the eventual outcome, or the length of time that may be necessary to subdue the lawlessness. They apparently feel it may grow worse before finally suppressed, although it was understood they had detected signs of reaction.

STORMS OVER RHONE VALLEY

DELAY ZEPPELIN

DIRIGIBLE NOW FLYING OVER FRANCE TO FRIEDRICHSHAFEN

DR. HUGO ECKENER'S ROUTE IS UNCERTAIN AFTER PASSING VALENCE

Friedrichshafen, Germany, June 6.—(U.P.)—The Graf Zeppelin, completing its spectacular flight to North and South America and return, landed at its home port here at 7:25 P. M. (1:25 P. M. C.S.T.)

A large crowd cheered the zeppelin and its commander, Hugo Eckener, on returning from the most ambitious journey since its flight around the world.

The zeppelin made a triumphant return after dodging a severe storm over the Rhone Valley in France which delayed its progress from Seville to Friedrichshafen.

The dirigible left here on May 18, flew to Seville, then to South America and up to Lakehurst, N. J., crossing the ocean twice and covering a total of probably 18,000 miles.

The zeppelin was towed swiftly into its hangar, within ten minutes after being moored.

After dodging southward in the Rhone Valley to escape the storm, the dirigible crossed the Swiss frontier over Neuchâtel and proceeded to Zurich. When it reached Lake Constance, the storm was far behind and the weather was clear and sunshiny.

Lyons, France, June 6.—(U.P.)—A violent storm area was descending from the northeast today on the Rhone Valley where the Graf Zeppelin was maneuvering in an effort to find clear sailing en route to the home port, Friedrichshafen.

The weather bureau here warned Dr. Hugo Eckener four times that the storm was approaching but received no word from the dirigible.

An aviator enroute from the north to Marseilles also signaled Dr. Eckener, who began swinging his ship around to escape the fierce storm which was creating havoc with trees and roofs in Lyons.

The dirigible turned about from Valence toward Montelimar and Dr. Eckener was expected to make a detour around the storm.

The aviator who warned the dirigible of the coming storm before he landed at Bron Field, near Marseilles, said the Graf Zeppelin was maneuvering easily at the time and was swinging about in its course. All regional radios and airdromes were advised of the situation and were alert to aid the dirigible if the need should arise.

It was recalled that one of the most thrilling episodes in the history of the Graf Zeppelin was enacted above the Rhone in the region where the dirigible was flying today. At that time the craft returning from Spain to Germany with a crippled engine, was brought down near Toulon after a desperate struggle with the elements.

Dr. Eckener had been shifting his course frequently earlier today to find favorable winds. The northeast winds were beating down on the ship as she headed up the valley, sending out regular signals of "All's well." The signals could not be picked up later, however, when the ship was warned of the storm.

NOMINATION OF CHRISTIANSON IS FREELY PREDICTED

St. Paul, Minn., June 6.—(AP)—G. B. Wollan, St. Paul Daily News political writer, said today the nomination of Governor Theodore Christianson was "freely predicted by old-time political observers."

This was in direct contrast to a prediction made by Paul F. Dehnol, Rochester, one of the six republican gubernatorial candidates who said it was his "honest opinion" that Senator Thomas D. Schall will receive "at least 100,000 more votes than Governor Christianson."

Dehnol prophesied his own nomination for governor but declined to estimate his plurality.

Schall's nomination also was forecast at a rally held for him last night at the Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis.

J. A. A. Burnquist, republican gubernatorial candidate, continued today to campaign in Iron range towns and was scheduled to talk Saturday night over radio station WEBC, Duluth, when he will be introduced by Rollin Hunt, president of the Northwestern Minnesota Bar Association. Schall and Dehnol will speak today at a community homecoming festival at Ely, Minn., tomorrow.

NOMINATION OF CHRISTIANSON IS FREELY PREDICTED

St. Paul, Minn., June 6.—(U.P.)—G. E. Wollan, St. Paul Daily News political writer, said today the nomination of Governor Theodore Christianson was "freely predicted by old-time political observers."

This was in direct contrast to a prediction made by Paul F. Dehn, Rochester, one of the six republican gubernatorial candidates who said it was his "honest opinion" that Senator Thomas D. Schall will receive "at least 100,000 more votes than Governor Christianson."

Dehn prophesied his own nomination for governor but declined to estimate his plurality.

Schall's nomination also was forecast at a rally held for him last night at the Nicolet Hotel, Minneapolis.

J. A. A. Burnquist, republican gubernatorial candidate, continued today to campaign in iron range towns and was scheduled to talk Saturday night over radio station WEEB, Duluth, when he will be introduced by Rollin Hunt, president of the Northwestern Minnesota Bar Association.

Schall and Dehn will speak today at a community homecoming festival at Elyota, Olmstead county. Announcement was made today of Health and social work authorities exchanged ideas on problems of today at the County Regional Conference on Health and Social Work which closes with a dinner program this evening at the First Baptist church.

The dinner meeting will include a musical program, a talk by Dr. William A. O'Brien of the University of Minnesota on "What's Wrong With Public Health?" and a talk by Dr. M. L. Stiffler, director of the Child Guidance Clinic, St. Paul, on "Mental Health and Its Relation to Social Work." County Attorney Arthur J. Sullivan will preside.

The following out of the city delegates registered:

Miss Brinkgold, Dr. Esther McGinnis, Rosalie Peterson, Myrtle Leslie, Olivia Peterson, Paul Fessler, Minneapolis; Mrs. Carbert, Elizabeth Scobey, Mrs. Clarence Larson, Mrs. J. E. Morrison, Evelyn Malmstrom, Morris; Miss B. E. Breuer, Park Rapids; Mrs. F. C. Peabody, Merrifield; Edith M. Riss, Florence Fitzgerald, Mildred Thompson, Gertrude Brees, Ida M. Mathews, St. Paul; Grace Olson, Ada; Adelaide Thompson, Atlanta, Ga.; John Gillan, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Gillan, James A. Geer, Long Prairie; Mrs. McNeal, Judge F. Hense, Mrs. Keim, Mrs. Earl Wells, Mrs. Homer Wells, Aitkin.

The morning session opened at 10:30 A. M. with Judge L. B. Kinder presiding and welcoming the delegates and visitors. He stated the last conference was held in Brainerd seven years ago, and that it gave a great impetus to welfare work in this county. The invocation was by Rev. F. A. Kufus.

Miss Gertrude Brees, general supervisor of adoptions and placements of the Children's Bureau, State Board of Control, St. Paul, gave a short talk on the progress made in the last few years in welfare work. The first regional conference ever held in Minnesota was held in Brainerd November 1921, she said. This is the 44th regional conference held since that time. She also extended an invitation to all to attend the state conference next fall, also the national conference to be held in Minneapolis at which several thousand people from all over

The Nineteen Hundredth Celebration of Pentecost Sunday, June 8

For the facts of Pentecost, we may read the last few verses of Luke's Gospel, the first chapter of Acts, the second chapter of Acts describes the great event.

Pentecost was a part of God's plan for the redemption of the world. The beginning of its execution was entrusted to Christ, in which he said to His disciples, stay in Jerusalem and pray until the Holy Spirit comes upon you. Upon those who fulfilled the promise, the Holy Spirit descended.

On that very day the extension of the Kingdom of God began. Before this there had been no effort to spread the gospel. On that day it was proclaimed by those who had received the Holy Spirit. Is it a strange thing to know that since that time, the spread of the gospel has been by those who have been empowered by the Holy Spirit?

Pentecost deals with people and people only. The Holy Spirit operates in the heart of a person, the person that fulfills the conditions.

The Nineteen Hundredth Anniversary of Pentecost renews the offer of the Holy Spirit to those who will meet the conditions. Those who accept the offer and meet the conditions will proclaim the gospel.

REV. A. G. PATTERSON,
Pastor, First Presbyterian Church.

the United States and leaders in all phases of social and health work will take part.

In introducing the next speaker, Miss Rebecca Cassell, secretary of the County Child Welfare Board, Judge Kinder announced her services with Crow Wing county will be severed in about two weeks, and spoke very highly of her work while in this county. He said she had been very active, and had made many outside investigations in which she was in no way legally bound to make.

"This county will suffer a great loss when Miss Cassell leaves," he said.

Miss Cassell gave a social welfare survey of Crow Wing county from January 1929 to January 1930, citing the following amounts spent:

Health work, (county nurse) $2,463.89; poor relief, approximately $7,101.04; Mother's Aid, $19,041.50; Child Welfare Board, $2,872.97.

There are three public libraries in the county, 80 schools, one full time librarian at Brainerd and two part time at Crosby and Ironton. There are also about 80 rural libraries in the county. There are 25 4-H clubs in the county and 35 P. T. A.'s, about 25 being in rural schools and the remainder in Brainerd, and 16 Community Farm clubs. The 4-H clubs and the Community Farm clubs are both very active, Miss Cassell stated.

Dr. B. A. Smith of Crosby was unable to be present and Miss Olive Peterson, of the state board of health, gave "A Health Survey of Crow Wing County." As special health agents in the county, Crow Wing county has 19 practicing physicians, 12 practicing dentists, three oculists or physicians who examine eyes, 11 nurses on private duty, 12 practical nurses and three midwives as well as a number of untrained women who render assistance in rural communities, which, said the speaker, was a very good comparison with other counties.

As to immunization, the report showed 51 percent of school children are protected from smallpox and 21.1 percent from diphtheria. It was also pointed out that 87 percent of water supplies and drinking facilities in the rural schools meet the requirements of the state department of Education and State Board of Health, with 93 percent of the city schools meeting this requirement.

Round table discussions were then held on Child Training with Dr. Esther McGinnis, Institute of Child Welfare, on "Health" with Miss Olivia T. Peterson, superintendent public health nursing in charge and "Child Welfare and Board Problems" with Miss Ida M. Mathews, district representative in charge.

In "Child Training" the parent-child relations were discussed, showing that the emotional side of family life and the relationship between parents and children were one of the most important parts of child training.

"The home gives the child a background, something to build its future upon," said Dr. McGinnis. "Mental specialists have agreed that a great number of their patients are those who developed wrong emotional habits as children. The most impressionable years of a child are the early ones."

Love, understanding and affection were rated the next in importance, giving the child a sense of security. Freedom of growth and letting them develop their own initiative were also stressed as among the most important. Dr. McGinnis said this was one fault mothers often made—because of their love for their children they would do too much for them instead of letting them choose and do for themselves.

Sterilization of feeble minded, the putting of feeble minded in institutions and the five day waiting law for marriages were discussed with Miss Mathews. There are about 13 feeble minded in Crow Wing county now on the waiting list to get into institutions.

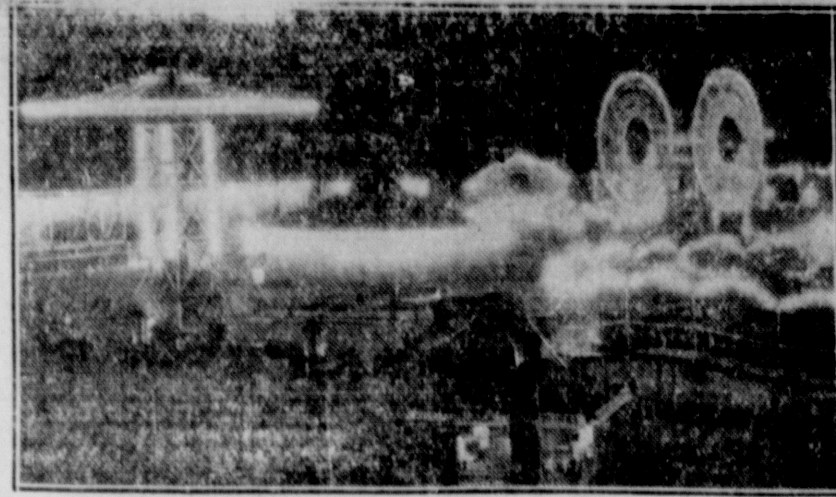

Rev. Father Philip H. Kiley of Aitkin, speaking this afternoon on "The Relation of the Church of Social Work" said in part:

"The Christian church has a very definite relationship to social work because religion in itself in its true sense is not a mere vesture put on for Sabbath day, but is something which goes into the very depth of our beings. You cannot shut religion out of your commercial life nor any other phase of life, and that is why the Christian church has such a relationship to social work, and must of necessity be interested in social work. That is why the church was interested in social work centuries before the modern social worker was thought of."

He then gave an account of how social work was carried out in the dark ages, in the ninth century of the Christian era where the poor and needy were taken care of.

"What relation has the church to social work?" he continued. "It is the very fount and inspiration of social work and offers the only philosophy of life which can inspire social work, which humanizes and proves social work worth while."

"The church carries out a definite social work in itself in the establishment of hospitals. Statistics," he said,

Night scene on the beautiful Midway of the Royal American Shows, showing for a week at the Paper Mill grounds starting Monday.

"show that hospitals collect only about two-thirds of their bills."

In showing the ultimate viewpoint of the church on social work he quoted "Inasmuch as ye have done it to these the least of my little ones, you have done it unto me," and that, he said, was the inspiration of social work. "Social work is not done for man merely because he is a man, but because he is the image of his father in Heaven."

In closing he said that in social work we do not lose, quoting "The quality of mercy is not strained. It blesses him that gives and him that takes."

Life Saving Instruction

The Red Cross in its varied program of activities does more than aid in disasters. It has taken up life saving work and by instruction accorded in swimming and life saving methods has done much to educate people as to what to do in emergencies in the water and how to aid in resuscitation.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. To save a child from drowning means much to the family of the little one and to the community. The value of a life cannot be measured. Once snuffed out, it cannot be replaced.

Young people and adults taught how to swim and to render first aid can by quick work be most effective. The best pulmotor in the world has no effect if the spark of life has left the body, and which might have been retained had quick and proper relief work been given as soon as the body left the water.

Brainerd Chapter of the Red Cross made a good record last season in life saving and swimming instruction and the same skilled tuition will again be afforded the public this year.

Zeppelin Feats

FIRST flights of the Graf Zeppelin stirred an imaginative world. Its conquest of Atlantic and Pacific and the round the world voyage excited the imagination of all readers.

Now comes the voyage linking three continents and so far but a ripple of excitement has been created. The huge dirigible sails along in a matter of fact way and has less trouble in the air than a ship at sea. It must be remembered that if the Zeppelin rolls in the air while in a storm, the ship sailing beneath is also breasting waves and has no even course.

So far, the last trip was devoid of any storm trouble except the squall encountered near the Bahamas. At the close of its journey Dr. Hugo Eckener is again showing his old time navigator skill in combatting a storm brewing in the Rhone valley. With so many successes to its credit, it is hoped the flying ship will weather this disturbance.

Lake Atmosphere

A DAY at the lakes is replete with joy of all kinds. In the first place the air is clearer and fresher than in town. Especially so where a cottage is located on a point and air is vitalized and cleaned by being blown over a lake.

The water is generally soft and does not carry the iron tinge of hard city water. That makes it wonderful for drinking and the ladies who have hair to wash are quite enraptured over its good qualities in that regard.

The pine woods add their pungent odor to the air and give the ozone wonderful zest. It is a delight to breathe and most refreshing to exercise one's lungs.

With earth, air and water in tune, it is no wonder a man's appetite grows apace. Any food becomes acceptable and digestion is further stimulated by a plunge in the lake before mealtime.

World Situation in Wheat

A EUROPEAN wheat harvest of about one-third less than the bumper crop of 1929 has been predicted by London wheat experts. The situation gives indications of a price advance in the United States, thus greatly benefiting our farmers.

Europe's wheat imports from January 1 to June 1 were estimated at 5,857,000 bushels, contrasted to 9,454,000 for the same period in 1929. The experts attributed the present low prices to a large holdover of the 1929 crop.

Rains are Beneficial

THE dry spell in May following the early rains of that month, had caused the farmers considerable worry, and so the rains starting in early June have been welcomed and are of inestimable benefit.

On June 2 the rainfall precipitation was 0.05 inch. On June 3 there was registered 0.12 inch, on June 4, 0.80 inch and Wednesday night 0.11 inch.

BRAINERD has adopted the inside left turn at its principal corner and other cities of the state are rapidly falling in line after the demonstration in the Twin Cities where this plan has proven by far the most practical, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer. One of the great needs of the present day is a uniform set of traffic laws and customs so that visiting motorists will not run counter to local custom.

THE gasoline, oil and other motorist business was a heavy one in Brainerd on Thursday and Friday (Memorial Day). Some garages report double the business for the same period last year. One garage reported noticing the large number of eastern cars touring including many from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Connecticut.

CHECK up on the adjustment of your automobile lamps and see that they do not glare, is the advice of Earle Brown, chief of the Minnesota Highway patrol. The highway patrol from now on will devote a large share of their time to the correction of glaring and otherwise faulty lights.

THOUGH appreciation of life insurance has grown enormously, America is still under-insured, say authorities. Competent observers predict the amount of insurance taken in the next ten years will exceed previous records.

FROST boil treatment of highways is now given successfully by the State Highway department which combats the capillary action of water in certain soils by tiling and backfilling with coarse gravel.

A MOVE to zone the skies for airplane travel was discussed by the Minneapolis Real Estate Board.

ROUGH riders last night knocked down a "stop" sign at Seventh and Oak streets.

Now is a good time to build that lake cottage or make other improvements at the lake.

LAKE resorts have had late openings this year.

"SHEIK'S WIFE"

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XLII.

SAAM MARKS was a thin person with very dark eyes and very sleek hair, given to soft collars with blue stripes in them and a whisper.

He whispered to Eve a great many questions about the Revelations and in the end she understood that he wished to make a play of it.

"But—but I don't see... it doesn't seem to me it would make a play..." She was in a panic. Ken had not been pleased with her writing the articles; he had not liked it when the book came out.

He never admitted this but she felt his antagonism. If it were made into a play—if he were to go to the theatre, see himself impersonated on the stage, laughed at even good-naturedly! "I don't think I'd like it," she told Mr. Marks.

"Certainly you would," he whispered. "Listen—" He talked for an hour, called Ken, who came with Nory and talked with them. Ken seemed indifferent—did he really feel so?—and Nory was delighted. "Marks knows what he's doing, Eve. He's had a bunch of successes."

Eve promised to think it over and when Marks came to the bungalow within the week it was arranged. Someone he knew who made a business of that sort of thing would dramatize the book; he would get the company together at once, go into rehearsal. Ought to be ready for the tryout in a month.

Impossible for Eve to keep down her excitement now. "I'm so thrilled! Think of seeing my people all walking around, talking, actually alive!"

But after Marks had left Ken dashed her enthusiasm. "Have to be so naive about it, do you? There have been plays before this."

"Oh, Ken!" Tears blinding her eyes, a sob catching her throat she dashed out of the room. So Ken was angry! She wished she never had written the Revelations, that she never had seen Marks. Yet he was sorry afterward. He came searching, put his arms around her, called her "angel lamb." "I'm a beast. Forgive me, dearest child. Course I'm glad you're having such a success. What's the matter, we've been keeping to ourselves too much; makes me grouchy. Let's have a vacation. Go up to Lakeview for a week."

She bubbled with joy. A week at Lakeview—oh, she'd neglected Uncle Mat, darling old thing. Lakeview in early fall with Ken! They made ready and started off at once. And the week was all one ever had dreamed of. A week might be, marred only by her anxiety over Uncle Mat's failing health. Like a thin white Everywhere they went they took him along. Into the village for the mail, up Mount Thor for a picnic, into the woods where they searched for chestnuts. All her days Eve was glad of that week; days touched with happiness and with sorrow which lived with her as a farewell to the old man who had been both father and mother to her.

She told him about Stonywall, making him understand all it meant to her. "You must let your husband know, dear. There should be perfect confidence between husband and wife."

"I know, darling. Only artists aren't just like other folks. Ken's rather a baby in some ways."

"Perhaps you make him a baby. People are likely to be what we expect of them, dear."

"Oh, of course I'll tell him. I hadn't thought of it just this way."

She resolved to tell Ken about Stonywall on the way home. A good time to talk to him; he liked to drive and would be willing to listen.

But Eve kept putting it off. She would tell him as soon as they got into the house; she would make waffles—Ken loved those—and talk after he had eaten a dozen waffles. Food made him good natured; that would be the right time.

They arrived earlier than she expected, however, and Ken wanted to go to the club. And there they met the tribe, all full of gossip, with Ken listening excitedly, turning to her every few minutes to say, "Hear that, Eve? Well, what do you know—what do you know!"

"What a time I'll have to get him back to work," she kept thinking. "Better wait till he's busy before I break Stonywall to him; oh, certainly—wait till he's busy—never start working if I don't!"

She left his breakfast on the table that first morning and drove into Haverford, since the larder was bare. Going to the newsstand to load her arms with all the new magazines, she was confronted by Puss Southwick's face smiling at her from Ken's latest cover.

Eve stood a long time looking at the pale, silky curls, the shallow eyes, babyish pout. What a likeness it was—and what an incredible thing that such a stupid little creature could have come between her and Ken. Incredible when Ken loved his wife so—he had proved this on their vacation—that he loved her deeply, sincerely.

With a bit of a sigh she turned away, went slowly out to the car.

It never would happen again, Ken wandering away from her. She must not let it happen again.

Missing Hiltop House, Eve saw that the workmen were gone. Windows were thrown open and shades fluttered in the warm breeze. She wondered idly who was moving in and forgot about it as she slowed and stopped the car to open a letter with Mark's name in the corner.

The Revelations was in rehearsal, he wrote, though they were still working on it. They were calling it "Model Madness," which might be changed, and it looked like a wow. And they would be glad to see her at the theatre.

She was so beside herself with eagerness to get to town that she gave a thought to her resolution that Ken must hear of Stonywall no later than today. And perhaps she might not have told him anyway, for he was hard at work when she returned and she easily might have convinced herself that there was no use running the risk of sending him out to tramp the hills again.

She caught the early afternoon train into New York, found the theatre, met Marks and a weary youth he introduced merely as "Bill." It was Bill, she gathered, who had dramatized Revelations, and he looked as if he thought very little of the whole thing. But when she mentioned this to Marks he assured her it was not the fact.

"Bill's tired, that's all," he explained, close to her ear. "Was born tired and kept getting tired all his life. Knows the game, Bill let 'em tell you otherwise. You sit here and watch."

Eve sat and watched. And while she thought the play very nice she could find little connection between it and her book. Characters kept appearing she never had thought of before; the lines they spoke had nothing to do with anything she had written. And, of course, the plot was all new, since there hadn't been much plot in her story.

"Swell when we've finished with it," Marks hissed behind his hand. "You'll say it's a wow. Wait and see."

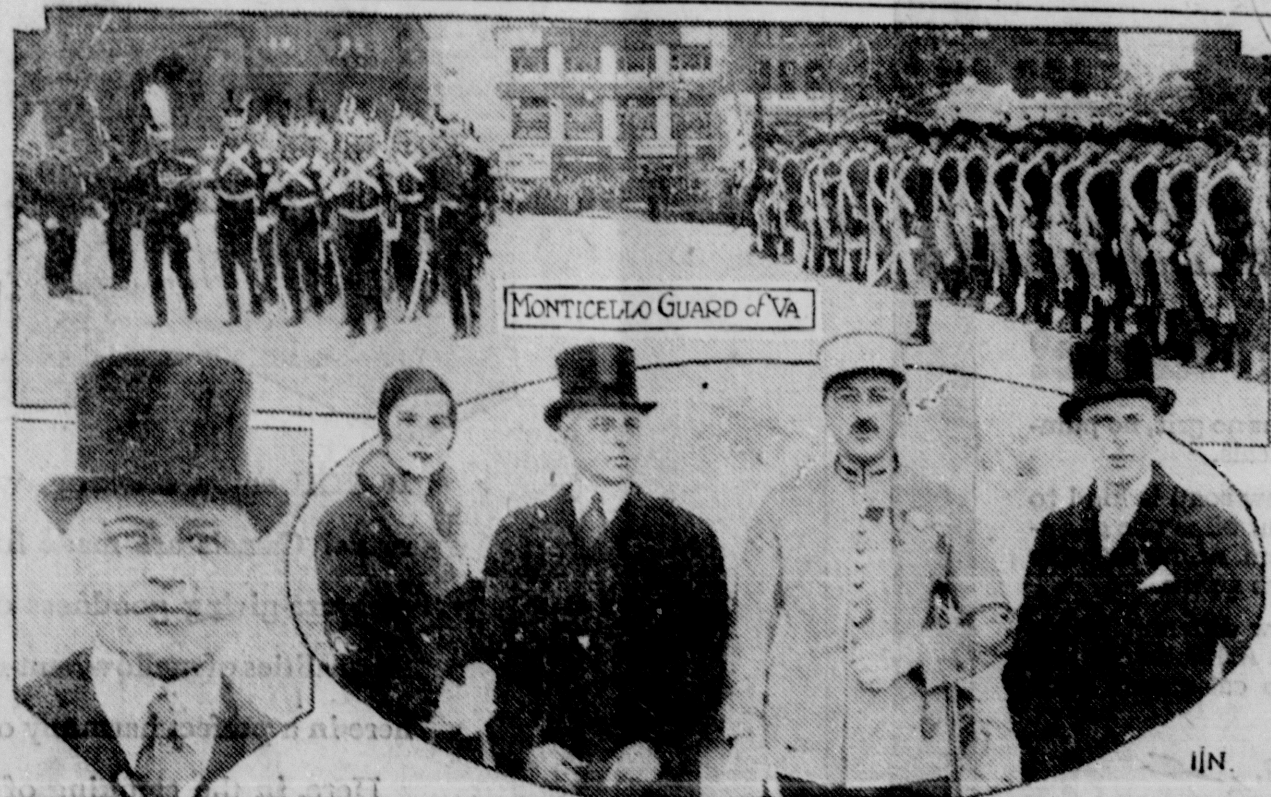

So Eve waited. Nearly every afternoon she went into New York and sat through rehearsal in the orchestra circle of the darkened, dusty theatre. And while the play took on smoothness it still remained quite different from the book.

Then Marks said they were ready for the tryout. The company was going down to Atlantic City; they would show there three nights, get everything in shape. If it went over, Broadway would be the next stop. A run on Broadway and they all would be millionaires.

Lafayette's Kin Visit United States

In Bright Colonial Uniforms, a Detachment of Monticello Guards Joins New York City in Welcome to Kin of French Hero.

MARQUIS DE DAMPIERRE, COUNTESS, MARQUIS, COUNT and VISCOUNT DE DANPIERRE.

Three descendants of that most valiant and steadfast friend of our troubled Revolutionary days received a welcome that came from America's heart on their recent visit to our shores. The trio that was greeted by colorful crowds of cheering New Yorkers was composed of the Marquis Jacques Henri de Dampierre, distinguished French historian and his two sons, Count Henri de Dampierre and Viscount Armand de Dampierre. They were accompanied by the Countess de Dampierre, wife of the older son. The occasion for the visit was the arrival in New York harbor of the new French line motorship—the Lafayette.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—thief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets. ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Life Saving Instruction

THE Red Cross in its varied program of activities does more than aid in disasters. It has taken up life saving work and by instruction accorded in swimming and life saving methods has done much to educate people as to what to do in emergencies in the water and how to aid in resuscitation.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. To save a child from drowning means much to the family of the little one and to the community. The value of a life cannot be measured. Once snuffed out, it cannot be replaced.

Young people and adults taught how to swim and to render first aid can by quick work be most effective. The best pulmotor in the world has no effect if the spark of life has left the body, and which might have been retained had quick and proper relief work been given as soon as the body left the water.

Brainerd Chapter of the Red Cross made a good record last season in life saving and swimming instruction and the same skilled tuition will again be afforded the public this year.

Zeppelin Feats

FIRST flights of the Graf Zeppelin stirred an imaginative world. Its conquest of Atlantic and Pacific and the round the world voyage excited the imagination of all readers.

Now comes the voyage linking three continents and so far but a ripple of excitement has been created. The huge dirigible sails along in a matter of fact way and has less trouble in the air than a ship at sea. It must be remembered that if the Zeppelin rolls in the air while in a storm, the ship sailing beneath is also breasting waves and has no even course.

So far, the last trip was devoid of any storm trouble except the squall encountered near the Bahamas. At the close of its journey Dr. Hugo Eckener is again showing his old time navigator skill in combatting a storm brewing in the Rhone valley. With so many successes to its credit, it is hoped the flying ship will weather this disturbance.

Lake Atmosphere

A DAY at the lakes is replete with joy of all kinds. In the first place the air is clearer and fresher than in town. Especially so where a cottage is located on a point and air is vitalized and cleaned by being blown over a lake.

The water is generally soft and does not carry the iron tinge of hard city water. That makes it wonderful for drinking and the ladies who have hair to wash are quite enraptured over its good qualities in that regard.

The pine woods add their pungent odor to the air and give the ozone wonderful zest. It is a delight to breathe and most refreshing to exercise one's lungs.

With earth, air and water in tune, it is no wonder a man's appetite grows apace. Any food becomes acceptable and digestion is further stimulated by a plunge in the lake before mealtime.

World Situation in Wheat

A EUROPEAN wheat harvest of about one-third less than the bumper crop of 1929 has been predicted by London wheat experts. The situation gives indications of a price advance in the United States, thus greatly benefiting our farmers.

Europe's wheat imports from January 1 to June 1 were estimated at 5,857,000 bushels, contrasted to 9,454,000 for the same period in 1929. The experts attributed the present low prices to a large holdover of the 1929 crop.

Rains are Beneficial

THE dry spell in May following the early rains of that month, had caused the farmers considerable worry, and so the rains starting in early June have been welcomed and are of inestimable benefit.

On June 2 the rainfall precipitation was 0.05 inch. On June 3 there was registered 0.12 inch, on June 4, 0.80 inch and Wednesday night 0.11 inch.

BRAINERD has adopted the inside left turn at its principal corner and other cities of the state are rapidly falling in line after the demonstration in the Twin Cities where this plan has proven by far the most practical, says the Bemidji Daily Pioneer. One of the great needs of the present day is a uniform set of traffic laws and customs so that visiting motorists will not run counter to local custom.

Ead News for Burglars
A French engineer has invented an electric dog that jumps, barks fiercely, and even tries to bite when—theoretically—a burglar throws the light of a torch in its face. The invention works on the principle of electric coils which set up a current when a ray of light reaches them. This in turn starts the motor that makes the dog act like a real animal.

Makes Gas Innocuous

It was stated recently that Dr. J. C. W. Frazer of Johns Hopkins university has announced the discovery of a catalyst that will convert carbon monoxide gas passing over it to harmless carbon dioxide. The efficiency of this catalyst is said to have been demonstrated under a variety of driving conditions and in confined spaces, the equivalent of closed garages.

Three descendants of that most valiant and steadfast friend of our troubled Revolutionary days received a welcome that came from America's heart on their recent visit to our shores. The trio that was greeted by colorful crowds of cheering New Yorkers was composed of the Marquis Jacques Henri de Dampierre, distinguished French historian and his two sons, Count Henri de Dampierre and Viscount Armand de Dampierre. They were accompanied by the Countess de Dampierre, wife of the older son. The occasion for the visit was the arrival in New York harbor of the new French line motorship—the Lafayette.

ROUGHAGE IS ESSENTIAL IN REDUCING DIETS

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Is Ideal Roughage

If you are following a reducing diet, it is doubly important that you take a regular amount of roughage into the system daily. Most reducing diets do not contain a sufficient amount of roughage. The result is constipation—chief of both health and beauty.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is recommended by many doctors and dietitians because it contains the bulk necessary to insure proper elimination.

Also, because it contains the iron needed to help prevent anemia—another danger in reducing diets. ALL-BRAN is not fattening. Its bulk sweeps the system clean of poisonous wastes—helping to promote glorious health and beauty.

A popular way to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is soaked in fruit juice. Try it! It is delicious with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over cereals, salads and soups. It adds flavor to cooked foods and is equally effective. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is served in restaurants, hotels and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GOPHER FANS HOPE FOR VICTORIES UNDER HERB CRISLER

CRIPPLED CUBS PLAY ROBINS A FOUR GAME SERIES

MINNESOTA HAS DEARTH OF TROPHIES IN 1930

ATHLETIC PROGRAM FOR THE YEAR HAS BEEN COMPLETED

MINNESOTA ANNEXED NO BIG TEN CHAMPIONSHIPS IN YEAR'S WORK

Minneapolis, Minn., June 6.—(U.P.)—Although no 1930 conference trophies decorated the shelves of the Minnesota Union as Gophers' turned in their equipment before a summer vacation, supporters looked hopefully for victories under the new regime of Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler.

Athletics for this year have been completed and only a few graduating seniors remained around the field house and stadium today waiting for Monday graduation.

For the first time in recent years, Minnesota annexed no Big Ten championship during a year's competition. However, several teams chalked up some of their best records for a number of years. Students and alumni are most hopeful of new triumphs under the new director of athletics who will assume full authority this fall.

In baseball, track and basketball, Minnesota teams erased last year's poor showing to hang up fairly consistent percentage marks. The baseball team placed sixth in the conference standings with a percentage of .400, the best Gopher standing in five years of baseball.

Though track men failed to win any events at the Big Ten outdoor meet, two dual meets were won as compared with none last year. Gopher basketball men won three games to finish seventh as against one victory last year.

Crisler himself has been moulding the football team during the spring practice. The intersectional event for which Gopher enthusiasts are pointing is with Leland Stanford University. Most of last year's material which was trained by Dr. Clarence Spears, will be back this fall.

Coach Emil Iverson's hockey team playing its last year under him went down to defeat at the hands of Wisconsin. The Badgers were responsible for Minnesota losing the midwest hockey championship which had been held for two consecutive years and for all but two years that Iverson had been at the university.

In tennis, Minnesota placed one man in the semi-finals of the conference tournament, but the Gophers' doubles team was eliminated during the early rounds.

The Minnesota golf team placed second in Big Ten competition.

UNCERTAIN ABOUT SANDE'S MOUNT

INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT, MAY NOT RIDE GALLANT FOX TOMORROW

New York, June 6.—(U.P.)—Whether Earle Sande, noted jockey, would ride Gallant Fox in tomorrow's Belmont stakes was uncertain today as the result of injuries he received in an automobile accident last night.

Sande was riding with Edward Barnes, another jockey, in an automobile which collided with another car. Sande was cut about the face and legs. He received treatment at Jamaica hospital and left for home.

Hospital authorities declined to say, however, whether the injuries were serious enough to keep him out of the race. The Belmont stake was hailed as a contest between Gallant Fox and Whirlaway for the three-year-old championship, and Sande's riding was regarded as important to the outcome.

NATIONAL LEAGUE LEAD IS AT STAKE IN 4-GAME SERIES

MCCARTHY'S "CRIPPLES" HAVE WON 8 GAMES IN ROW, DESPITE LOSS OF 2 MEN

CHICAGO TEAM SCORED 59 RUNS IN THEIR LAST 4 GAMES PLAYED

(By United Press)

Chicago's so-called "crippled" Cubs today moved into Brooklyn for a four-game series against the Brooklyn Robins, with the National League lead at stake.

McCarthy's "cripples" have won 8 games in a row despite the loss of Pitcher Hal Carlson and Second Baseman Rogers Hornsby, and opened the series only two games behind the league-leading Robins. The Cubs have scored 59 runs in their last four games. Brooklyn's games with the Cubs provides the first serious test for the Robins' flag aspirations.

Hack Wilson and Gabby Hartnett led the attack in the Cubs' 10 to 7 win over the Boston Braves yesterday. Wilson hit his 17th homer of the season and Hartnett's homer drove in three runs.

Captain Glenn Wright returned to the Brooklyn lineup and completed a sensational double play to give the Robins a 6 to 5 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Philadelphia Athletics dropped their first game in 11 starts, but held their one-game lead in the American League when the second place Washington Senators lost to Detroit.

Rube Walberg held St. Louis to five hits and one run in eight innings but weakened in the ninth, and was touched for two singles and a double before being relieved by Jack Quinn. The Browns added three hits off Quinn and won the game, 6 to 5.

Stone's heavy slugging and Sorrell's effective pitching enabled Detroit to defeat Washington, 6 to 2.

Joe Genewich pitched New York to a 7 to 4 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds and the Giants advanced to a tie with Pittsburgh for fourth place.

Cleveland batted around in the first inning before a man was retired, and romped to an easy 17 to 7 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Philadelphia made 14 hits behind excellent pitching by Hap Colard and defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 4.

The New York Yankees-Chicago White Sox game was halted by rain after two innings of play.

Columbus, O., June 6.—A short hit by Danny Boone, which struck just inside the foul line, bounced crazily sideways, hit on top of the fence and fell into the bleachers, counted as a home run yesterday and scored two men to give Columbus the second game of the series with Kansas City, 4 to 2.

Louisville, Ky., June 6.—Louisville defeated St. Paul in a free-hitting game here yesterday, 6 to 5. It was the third victory in a row for Louisville.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 6.—Although outthrust throughout the game Minneapolis defeated Indianapolis 7 to 4 here yesterday. Hilderbrand, Indian relief pitcher, fanned seven men and allowed but two hits in the last four innings.

Toledo, O., June 6.—Toledo and Milwaukee pounded the ball all over the lot for a total of 38 hits here yesterday, and when the air cleared Milwaukee had won, 18 to 11. Every man on the Brewer team made two or more hits except Jenkins and Turgeon, who made one each.

ABRAHAMSON, LAMMON, HOFFBAUER AND SCHUETZ TO COMPETE AT UNIVERSITY

Four Brainerd high school athletes will compete tomorrow afternoon in the State High School Track and Field meet at the University of Minnesota field house.

Alfred Abrahamson who won first place in high jump at the regional meet by going over the bar at 5 feet 6 inches is expected to better his record tomorrow.

Malcolm Lammon will represent the school in the 440 yard dash. He topped first place in the regional with a time of 56 seconds.

John Hoffbauer will run the 220 yard low hurdles having taken second in the regional with 27.5 seconds.

Nathan Schuetz jumped 19 feet 10 inches at the regional for second place and will compete for broad jump honors tomorrow.

The boys will be accompanied by Coach Warren Kusch.

SHARKEY AND SCHMELING ARE VIVID CONTRASTS

SCHMELING IS GRIM, SERIOUS AND DETERMINED BEFORE FIGHT

Endicott, N. Y., June 6.—Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling present vivid contrasts in their training for next Thursday night's heavyweight championship battle at Yankee Stadium.

Sharkey is jovial, carefree and confident. Schmeling is grim, serious and determined.

Sharkey, when not doing road work or training, loaf around his camp at Orangeburg, playing cards with his sparring partners. He will talk to anybody who comes along.

Schmeling is almost as hard to see as the president. He has two bodyguards. He lives in a two-story frame building across the Susquehanna river, about two miles from where he does his boxing at the Enjeio health farm.

When Schmeling works out, he enters the ring quickly, begins at once and leaves with his bodyguards immediately afterwards.

Sharkey works hard against his two principal sparring partners, Johnny Risko and Paul Cavalier, but usually clowns through his workout with King Solomon.

Orangeburg, N. Y., June 6.—Jack Sharkey regards his world heavyweight fight with Max Schmeling as a great patriotic duty. Before starting his boxing workout yesterday, Sharkey issued a "proclamation to the American boxing public," in which he promised to "do his utmost to retain the title that has become traditional to America."

Endicott, N. Y., June 6.—(U.P.)—Max Schmeling took another holiday from boxing today and limited his training activities to golf. Charley Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight champion, joined Schmeling's camp yesterday.

HAM-LIKE FISTS OF CARNERA WIN VICTORY

DEFEATS CHRISTNER, GAINS MORE PRESTIGE THAN IN ALL OTHER 17 BOUTS

CHRISTNER KNOCKED OFF HIS FEET IN 4TH ROUND OF 10-ROUND FIGHT

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—(U.P.)—The ham-like fists of Italy's ring curiosity today had hung up another knockout for Primo Carnera—this time giving him more prestige with fight followers than all his other 17 American knockouts, for the victim was Meyer (Kayo) Christner, Akron, O., rubber puddle. Christner was counted out after one minute and 20 seconds of fighting in the fourth round, of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

It was the first time in five years of fighting that Christner had been knocked off his feet, and he has fought Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Jim Maloney and other good men.

The giant Italian, who towered above Christner, was simply too powerful for his opponent. Unable to parry Christner's leads with skill, he merely threw out his arms, swept aside the blows and walked in to whale Kayo about the head.

The fight, held at Floyd Fitzsimmons' open-air arena, inaugurated the Detroit outdoor season. It drew 18,000 fans who paid $75,000. The fighters divided 60 per cent of the receipts. Carnera will have his next ring test at Philadelphia June 23, when he meets George Godfrey, negro heavyweight.

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—Jock Silvers, 175, Los Angeles, defeated George Wilson, 178, Akron, O., in a six-round bout here last night. Charley Retzlaff, 195, Duluth, Minn., stopped Tom Sayers, 207, Detroit (1). Tiny Powell, 215, Akron, O., knocked out Jack Lewis, 195, San Francisco (2).

A Real Baseball Feud

By HARDIN BURNLEY

"Mel" OTT—(Right), THE GIANTS' HOME RUN ACE, WHO IS DETERMINED TO BEAT OUT Chuck KLEIN, (Below), PHILLY STAR, IN THIS YEAR'S HOME-RUN RACE—!

ABOUT the only situation in current baseball resembling the pugna rivalry that once marked the game is the slaughter-'em feeling which now flames between the New York Giants and the Phillies, all because of what happened in the final two games between those teams last season. It will take long for the players to forget the main feature of that double-header, and that was the fact that the Philadelphia pitchers gave Mel Ott, of the Giants, his base on balls every time he came to bat. Mel and Chuck Klein of the Phillies were tied for the National League home-run leadership with 42 each. During the double-header, Klein managed to whale one into the bleachers and thus he won that homeric duel. But Ott never got a good ball from the Phil fingers. They treated him as though he were Babe Ruth with men on bases. That strategy insured the homer crown for their team-mate, but it made the Giants and their supporters burn.

This season, Klein and Ott are again among the leading contenders for home run honors. Both are natural sluggers and young. Their race should be as keen as it was throughout 1929. Chuck got away to a better start than Mel, and Phil fans are forecasting a runaway race with no unnecessary bases on balls needed this year to keep Ott in the rear. They and others hold that "team spirit" justified those final game walks last year. Some are outspoken in praising Manager Burt Shotton's strategy.

On the other hand John McGraw & Co., backed by every Giant fan and friend of Ott, are caustic in scoring that base-on-balls dodge as about the cheapest piece of sportsmanship in big league history. The quiet, pleasant-natured Mel is especially popular among his fellow Giants. He is the least disturbed of all over the way in which the Phils walked his rival into those homer laurels. "They had a right to do it," is the way Ott sums up the situation: "perhaps, I might not have hit one had they given me a chance to do so." But most of his pals do not take it that calmly and what a ride they give the Phils—Klein and Shotton particularly—whenever they get together.

No fist fights have occurred as yet, none has been spiked, and no riots have resulted—but if present feelings are not kept under control—this feud will flame into some real brawl before Klein and Ott cease swinging for homers, or getting walked, this season.

even on the roughest roads

You probably know the Oakland Eight best as a car of superior performance. Its exceptional speed—its thrilling pick-up—its masterly hill-climbing power are qualities that people are apt to note and remember. But the Oakland Eight is a car of unusual comfort, too!

A car whose remarkable roadability invites you to open the throttle—and take even the roughest roads with a feeling of restfulness and safety. Reasons? Here they are: An 85-horsepower engine whose high ratio of power to the weight of the car eliminates all sense of effort or strain. A low center of gravity that minimizes swaying and keeps you hugging the road securely. A wheelbase of 117 inches, and carefully worked out springs whose action is controlled by Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers. Skillful distribution of weight that contributes to harmony of motion. A steering gear that works on roller bearings.

Performance on the perfect road is one thing—performance where the going's rough is another. You get them both in the Oakland Eight. Come in—and let us prove it!

Christner was counted out after one minute and 20 seconds of fighting in the fourth round, of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

It was the first time in five years of fighting that Christner had been knocked off his feet, and he has fought Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Jim Maloney and other good men. The giant Italian, who towered above Christner, was simply too powerful for his opponent. Unable to parry Christner's leads with skill, he merely threw out his arms, swept aside the blows and walked in to whale Kayo about the head.

The fight, held at Floyd Fitzsimmons' open-air arena, inaugurated the Detroit outdoor season. It drew 18,000 fans who paid $75,000. The fighters divided 60 per cent of the receipts. Carnera will have his next ring test at Philadelphia June 23, when he meets George Godfrey, negro heavyweight.

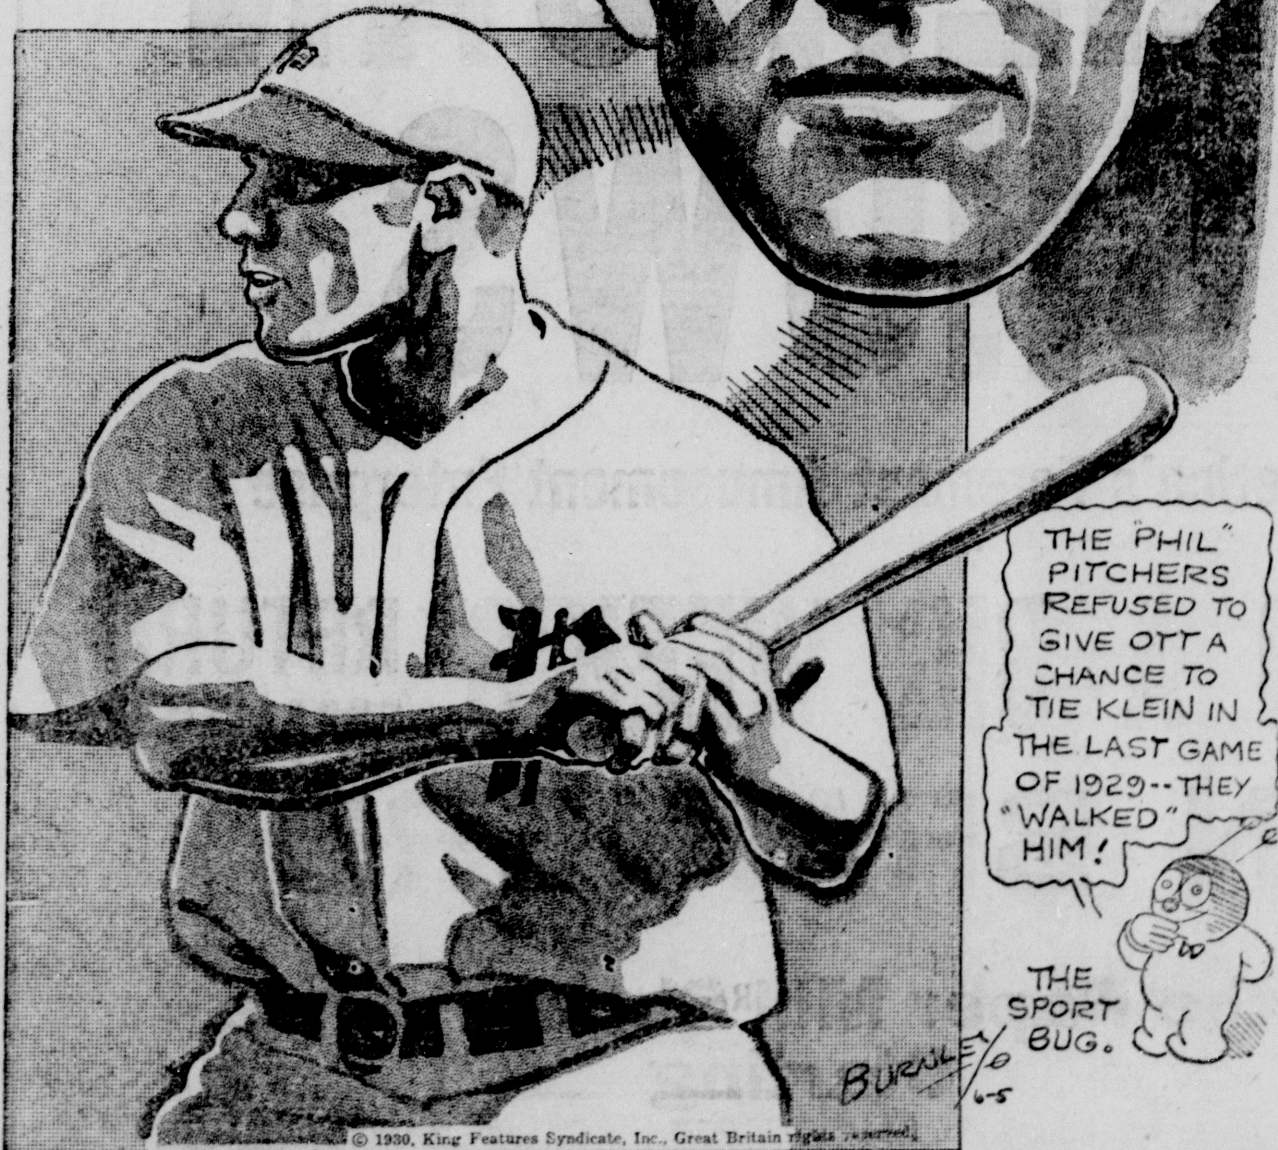

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—Jack Silvers, 175, Los Angeles, defeated George Wilson, 178, Akron, O., in a six-round bout here last night. Charley Retzlaff, 195, Duluth, Minn., stopped Tom Sayers, 207, Detroit (1). Tiny Powell, 215, Akron, O., knocked out Jack Lewis, 195, San Francisco (2).

The word "fellah" is Arabic, and in lands where Arabic is spoken, such as Egypt and Syria, the term is applied to a peasant, a laborer or a field hand.

A Real Baseball Feud

By HARDIN BURNLEY

"Mel" OTT—(Right), THE GIANTS' HOME RUN ACE, WHO IS DETERMINED TO BEAT OUT Chuck KLEIN, (Below), PHILLY STAR, IN THIS YEAR'S HOME-RUN RACE!!

ABOUT the only situation in current baseball resembling the pugnacious rivalry that once marked the game is the slaughter-tem feeling which now flames between the New York Giants and the Phillies, all because of what happened in the final two games between those teams last season. It will take long for the players to forget the main feature of that double-header, and that was the fact that the Philadelphia pitchers gave Mel Ott, of the Giants, his base on balls every time he came to bat. Mel and Chuck Klein of the Phillies were tied for the National League home-run leadership with 42 each. During the double-header, Klein managed to whale one into the bleachers and thus he won that homeric duel. But Ott never got a good ball from the Phil fingers. They treated him as though he were Babe Ruth with men on bases. That strategy insured the homer crown for their team-mate, but it made the Giants and their supporters burn.

This season, Klein and Ott are again among the leading contenders for home run honors. Both are natural sluggers and young. Their race should be as keen as it was throughout 1929. Chuck got away to a better start than Mel, and Phil fans are forecasting a runaway race with no unnecessary bases on balls needed this year to keep Ott in the rear. They and others hold that "team spirit" justified those final game walks last year. Some are outspoken in praising Manager Burt Shotton's strategy.

On the other hand John McGraw & Co., backed by every Giant fan and friend of Ott, are caustic in scoring that base-on-balls dodge as about the cheapest piece of sportsmanship in big league history. The quiet, pleasant-natured Mel is especially popular among his fellow Giants. He is the least disturbed of all over the way in which the Phils walked his rival into those homer laurels. "They had a right to do it," is the way Ott sums up the situation; "perhaps, I might not have hit one had they given me a chance to do so." But most of his pals do not take it that kindly and what a ride they give the Phils—Klein and Shotton particularly—whenever they get together.

No fist fights have occurred as yet, none has been spiked, and no riots have resulted—but if present feelings are not kept under control—this feud will flame into some real brawls before Klein and Ott cease swinging for homers, or getting walked, this season.

You enjoy its
even on the roughest roads

You probably know the Oakland Eight best as a car of superior performance. Its exceptional speed—its thrilling pick-up—its masterly hill-climbing power are qualities that people are apt to note and remember. But the Oakland Eight is a car of unusual comfort, too!

A car whose remarkable roadability invites you to open the throttle—and take even the roughest roads with a feeling of restfulness and safety. Reasons? Here they are: An 85-horsepower engine whose high ratio of power to the weight of the car eliminates all sense of effort or strain. A low center of gravity that minimizes swaying and keeps you hugging the road securely. A wheelbase of 117 inches, and carefully worked out springs whose action is controlled by Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers. Skillful distribution of weight that contributes to harmony of motion. A steering gear that works on roller bearings.

Performance on the perfect road is one thing—performance where the going's rough is another. You get them both in the Oakland Eight. Come in—and let us prove it!

Tim Wilson's "Roll"

By CHARLES S. REID

(Copyright.)

THE shadows were growing long among the hills. Over the rugged trail leading upward from Cheowhee valley into the hills trudged a man. There was a buoyancy in his step, and a poise of his head which indicated abounding joy. Tim Wilson was getting home again after an absence of five years in the West; and it was more than a homecoming to fireside and mother, for a girl awaited him by all the virtue of a promise made those five years before. Tim had told her that he would wrench from the grasp of the world five thousand dollars before he returned to claim her. Tim had the five thousand now in a bulky roll of fifty one-hundred-dollar bills.

Nature had gathered the sweetness of the mountain flowers and the brightness of the sunshine to mould the beauty of Sarey Goodman; and Tim had carried the memory of it in his heart every day of the struggle and hard application of his five years of service in fortune hunting.

Old Hollis Goodman had built his cabin on a little plot between the hills, and facing the Sheepsnose cliff, more than fifty years before; and here Sarey would be waiting for Tim. The trail wound about the base of the cliff; but Tim chose to climb to the top of the rock, so that he might first gaze down upon the cabin that had sheltered Sarey for all these years.

Twilight was settling about the cabin. Old "Ringold," Sarey's dog, was lying asleep in front of the cabin door. Ringold was older but still faithful. Even a dog must be faithful to Sarey Goodman! Tim stood for some moments, his gaze dwelling upon the peaceful scene and the spot of his anticipated great joy.

"Sarey!" he murmured.

As if in answer to his heart call, a young woman came and stood framed in the doorway. Once more Tim's lips moved to utter the beloved name aloud. The girl was shading her eyes with her hand, and was gazing down the mountain trail as if expecting some one. Tim's heart thumped in his breast. He pictured Sarey standing thus every evening looking for his return. Now the shout rose to his lips, but died away unuttered. Some one else was hurrying up the trail to meet the girl.

Tim Wilson slumped to his knees on the rock. As the young couple walked arm in arm to the cabin door, Tim's hand crept down into his trousers pocket and drew forth the roll of bills he had treasured there. He tried to crush them, but the bulky roll refused to be compressed. Opening his palm he looked down upon the greenish paper mass. Slowly regaining his feet he advanced to the narrow edge of the cliff, where he stood for a moment convulsed in body and soul over the story which the little scene below seemed to have revealed. Again he glanced at the roll in his opening palm. It was held together by a stout rubber band. Here were the savings of five years of toil and privations, gathered together for Sarey. He had brought it thus that he might lay it upon her palm.

"Well, she she'll have it, as my parting gift," he mused.

Bending his body backward for a supreme effort, and swinging his right arm through a sweeping arc, he hurled the package of currency with perfect aim toward the doorway of the cabin. As a bird winging homeward to its nest the roll landed upon the floor with a little thud, attracting the attention of all those within, a stooped old man, two young women and a young man. The elder of the girls seized the strange object from the floor.

"Lord, what a lot o' money!" she exclaimed, hugging the roll to her bosom. "I wonder—"

Suddenly she darted from the cabin into the yard beyond. Halting a few feet from the step she looked all about her.

"Tim," she shouted; "Oh, Tim!" Then a moment later: "Don't yuh try to hide from me, Tim! I jes' know ye've come home!"

In the meantime Tim Wilson lay a crumpled heap not twenty steps away, with a sprained ankle. A loose stone had rolled from beneath his foot, when he hurled the roll of bills into the cabin doorway; and his body had shot downward to the rocks below. A moment later he would have started down out of the hills again forever. On hearing his name called he sat up, and grinned cynically. But the movement of his body had not escaped the girl's attention; and the next moment she was beside Tim.

"Yeah, Sarey; I'm back again; but, gee, I wish I hadn't come!"

"For the land sakes, Tim Wilson; what yuh talkin' about?"

Tim was silent a moment. "Well, Sarey; I—I got a busted foot; and—and—who's yuh man, Sarey?"

Sarey gazed down upon him. "The Lord he's yuh, Tim Wilson; as if I'd ever had any other man but you!"

"Sarey!" Tim dragged himself quickly to his full height on one foot. "Didn't I see yuh in the arms of a man?"

Sarey laughed, and the echo of it came back from the ravine below in a silvery peal. "That was little Sis meetin' her man. She's growed up and got married since yuh left, Tim."

"Lord, Sarey; I'd ha' been gone away from here if I hadn't got this foot busted. Thank God I got thet tumble!"

BANDITS GET $50 IN PEQUOT HOLDUP

Two Masked Men Rob Wm. Wells
Restaurant for Second Holdup
in County in 24 Hours

TAKE CASH FROM TILL

Proprietor Takes Holdup as Joke
Then Opens Cash Drawer When Gun Displayed

Thinking it all a joke Wm. Wells went about his work when two masked men entered his restaurant at Pequot last evening at 10:10 o'clock and ordered him to open the cash register. But when one of the men flashed a gun and told him to be snappy about it Wells changed his mind, opened the cash register and the men scooped the change from the till and left.

Wells told the sheriff's department that the men got away with about $50 in cash. He described them as wearing hats and overcoats with white masks over their faces.

Hugo Dallman, 14 year old nephew, was in the restaurant when the bandits entered. He was told to remain seated on a chair at a table. The holdup required only a few minutes. The holdup was the second within 24 hours in the county. The previous evening two unmasked bandits entered the Folio Drug store at Crosby and escaped with $100 in cash.

Sheriff Claus A. Theorin and Deputy Sheriff Charles W. Oberg started investigation of the robbery last night.

Peony pointers.

For the best quality of bloom, disbud your peonies. This means, remove all the buds on the stem except the largest one. The earlier in the season that this is done, the better. Manure should not be used on peonies, especially during the growing season. If it ever is used, it is imperative it be well rotted and that it never touches the crown. Bone meal is the best fertilizer for peonies. Take a cupful of bone meal and work it into the roots, making a ring around the entire plant. Peonies should always be staked. Watch thoroughly during the blooming season. The buds will blast if not given sufficient water at this time.

Ants on peony buds do no harm. The ants are after the syrupy exudation from the buds. Two remedies are effective. Just sprinkle the buds liberally in the morning with black pepper, or pour a ring of black molasses around the plants.

Grass among peonies is often the cause of failure to bloom well and there should be a cultivated circle around the plant at least three feet in diameter.

Never move your peony plants unless it is absolutely necessary. The old established plant will give better bloom. The stalks may be thinned out if necessary.

September is the best time to plant peonies, because they will then have sufficient time for root growth to start before cold weather.

Cultural hints for tulips:

There are thousands of home owners every year who start in and try out 50 or 100 tulips, and after two or three years they give up in disgust. This is due largely to improper care. First, obtain good bulbs from a reliable grower. The early single, Darwin, Breeder and double tulips are all adapted to this climate. They should be planted four to five inches deep and should not be planted until the latter part of September. Under no circumstances should you use fresh manure and bone meal is a safe and very efficient fertilizer. Tulips should be taken up every two to three years. They should be dug in July after the leaves have died down and taken in to the basement, where there is not too strong light and no severe draft. Dry them for 7 or 8 days, then separate and clean the bulbs. The larger bulbs will give good bloom the following spring and the smaller bulbs will grow into large ones. Fifty percent increase in your bulbs will be had if this is done and it will insure permanent success with tulips.

Sees Unusual Falling Meteor

G. R. McClintock, proprietor of Port View Resort on Lake Margaret reports seeing a falling meteor Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock. He described the meteor as making a letter S in the sky and remaining in sight for 20 minutes.

GULL RIVER

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ashcroft and daughters Luella and Vyrle left Sunday for Sleepy Eye.

Phillip Roth of Brainerd spent the week end at the Matt Lynch home.

Miss Gladys Peterson who has been teaching in Casper, Wyoming is expected home the last of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Brower Peterson and son Harold and Miss Konitz spent Saturday evening at E. E. Havens.

Harold Havens was an Aitkin visitor Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. Ramsey returned home from Chicago Monday. Her sister Mrs. Leo Powers accompanied her home for a visit. Mrs. Ramsey has been under the doctor's care in Chicago the past year. Her friends hope she has fully recovered and are glad to welcome her back.

Mrs. Markusen and children spent Friday at E. E. Havens.

Mrs. Matt Lynch and children Mark, Maude, Marie and Madge spent Sunday afternoon at E. E. Havens.

"Bud" Taylor left Friday for Sleepy Eye where he has employment.

Matt Lynch, Mark, Maude and Marie spent Monday evening at John Anderson's.

ATTENDS M. AND I. DIRECTORS MEETING

W. H. Gemmell left for St. Paul last night to attend a meeting of the Minnesota and International directors there today.

Saturday and Monday he will be present at important meetings of the Board of Regents of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. He and Mrs. Gemmell will go to the baccalaureate exercises in the Northrup Memorial auditorium Sunday morning and to the graduation exercises in the stadium Monday evening.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MEET AT SARTELL

Delegation From First Congregational Church of Brainerd to be Present

The annual convention of the central district of Christian Endeavor will be held at Sartell tomorrow, June 7. "Spiritual Reserve Power" will be the theme of the meeting.

An active program has been arranged for the day. At the morning session Mrs. C. S. Olds will talk on "New Light from the Old Book." This will be followed by a trip through the paper mill. The business meeting and election and installation of officers will be held at the afternoon session, also a "Question Box" and oratorical contest. Rev. E. H. Moore will speak on "New Power from the Divine Spirit." An outdoor supper will be held at 6 p. m. Delegates from the First Congregational church of Brainerd will be present.

Noted Players in Crook Picture

Monte Blue, Lila Lee, Betty Compson and William Boyd, the all-star quartette of talent that heads the cast of "Those Who Dance," at the Paramount Saturday only, are all noted separately for crook roles.

Not one of them, however, ever played a part even similar to the one he or she portrays in "Those Who Dance." William Beaudine who directed this novel and powerful crook melodrama, saw to that in his selection of the cast.

Blue has a punchy role as a policeman who disguises himself to pose as a gangster "Moll's" sweetheart in order to play a desperate game in the middle of a group wherein his life is forfeit. Miss Lee is the sweetheart also in the gang under the compulsion of unusual circumstances.

Boyd, the famous stage actor and not the screen "he-man," is an especially sinister villain, and Betty Compson is his girl. As many crook characterizations as even Miss Compson has played, her role in this picture goes entirely outside the nature of any in which she had appeared.

CITY MARKET CHANGE

Grocery Department Moves Into Same Building as Meat Department of Organization

In order to give better service to their patrons the grocery department of the City Market House operated by J. H. Rasch has moved into the same building as the meat department of the same organization under the management of S. E. Schultz on the corner of Seventh and Front streets.

According to Mr. Rasch the change will make for greater convenience for shoppers as both departments are now under one roof. The grocery department will continue to carry much of the same stock that it has carried in the past although it will specialize more in the sale of fresh fruits and vegetables.

JAMES RICHARDS IS SHATTUCK GRADUATE

James Fleming Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Richards of Brainerd, was graduated from the Shattuck School at Faribault, Minn., at the annual commencement exercises held last Thursday, June 5.

Jim was active in athletics at Shattuck winning his letter in hockey. He rose to the rank of corporal in the battalion.

DE MOLAYS TO INITIATE CLASS

Delegates from Alexandria, Staples, Little Falls, Crosby-Ironton, Pine River Present

The Roosevelt Chapter of DeMolays will confer the initiatory and DeMolay degrees on a class of candidates at the Masonic hall this evening.

Delegates from Alexandria, Staples, Little Falls, Crosby, Ironton and Pine River will be present.

All Brainerd DeMolays are urged to attend, and an invitation has been extended all Masons of Brainerd. A committee is arranging for refreshments to be served following the work.

HENRY RINES IN CITY

Candidate for State Auditor Campaigning Here for Past Two Days

Henry Rines, who is a candidate for state auditor, has been campaigning in this vicinity during the past two days, and reports that he finds conditions very favorable and encouraging from his standpoint. Mr. Rines home is at Mora, in a neighboring county, but he has occupied prominent state positions for a number of years and is therefore very familiar with all phases of the state government.

He is a believer in a practical conservation program which will conserve the state's natural resources. Mr. Rines is well acquainted in this section of the state where he has many friends and old time acquaintances.

He and his son, S. H. Rines left this afternoon for Little Falls where he will confer with friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown us during our bereavement, the death of our husband and father; also for the floral offerings.

MRS. S. W. ROUSE,
and family.

INSTALL NEW LONG DISTANCE CIRCUITS

Addition of Three Lines Placed by
Bell Improves Fine
Service Here

VOICE CARRYING ASSURED

Repeaters Installed; Office Handles
Average of 450 Long Distance
Calls Daily

In order to meet the constant demand for long distance telephone service in Brainerd and to improve the service to the number of cities and adjacent towns in this section three new long distance circuits were recently placed in service. It is announced by Henry D. Hoffmann, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

These improvements involve the construction of 384 miles of open copper wire between Minneapolis and Little Falls, 64 miles of new copper wire between Little Falls and Brainerd, 444 miles of new copper wire between Brainerd, Crosby, McGregor and Duluth, the installation of telephone repeaters and other long distance transmission equipment.

"A telephone repeater is a device which when used in connection with long distance service keeps the voice currents from becoming weak through travelling over great distances and sends them on with renewed energy to their destination," Mr. Hoffmann explained.

These repeaters will make possible an improved and more uniform service between here and the Twin Cities and Duluth and adjacent towns of Crosby, McGregor, Little Falls and St. Cloud.

"The development of Brainerd as a business and shopping center for tourists and summer vacationists who visit this section has increased the use made of out-of-town telephone service so that the city is rapidly becoming the center for long distance activities in this section," said Mr. Hoffmann.

Approximately 450 long distance calls a day are now handled by long distance operators in the central office. During peak periods of the summer these calls sometimes reach as high as 550 calls a day.

"These improvements are in accordance with the practice of our company in providing telephone service so that anyone, anywhere may talk clearly and quickly at reasonable cost with anyone anywhere else," said Mr. Hoffmann.

of Organization

In order to give better service to their patrons the grocery department of the City Market House operated by J. H. Rasch has moved into the same building as the meat department of the same organization under the management of S. E. Schultz at the corner of Seventh and Front streets.

According to Mr. Rasch the change will make for greater convenience for shoppers as both departments are now under one roof. The grocery department will continue to carry much of the same stock that it has carried in the past although it will specialize more in the sale of fresh fruits and vegetables.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown us during our bereavement, the death of our husband and father; also for the floral offerings.

MRS. S. W. ROUSE,
and family.

JAMES RICHARDS IS SHATTUCK GRADUATE

James Fleming Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Richards of Brainerd, was graduated from the Shattuck School at Faribault, Minn., at the annual commencement exercises held last Thursday, June 5.

Jim was active in athletics at Shattuck winning his letter in hockey. He rose to the rank of corporal in the battalion.

DE MOLAYS TO INITIATE CLASS

Delegates from Alexandria, Staples,
Little Falls, Crosby-Ironton,
Pine River Present

The Roosevelt Chapter of DeMolays will confer the initiatory and DeMolay degrees on a class of candidates at the Masonic hall this evening.

Delegates from Alexandria, Staples, Little Falls, Crosby, Ironton and Pine River will be present.

All Brainerd DeMolays are urged to attend, and an invitation has been extended to all Masons of Brainerd. A committee is arranging for refreshments to be served following the work.

HENRY RINES IN CITY
Candidate for State Auditor Campaigning Here for Past
Two Days

Henry Rines, who is a candidate for state auditor, has been campaigning in this vicinity during the past two days, and reports that he finds conditions very favorable and encouraging from his standpoint. Mr. Rines home is at Mora, in a neighboring county, but he has occupied prominent state positions for a number of years and is therefore very familiar with all phases of the state government.

He is a believer in a practical conservation program which will conserve the state's natural resources. Mr. Rines is well acquainted in this section of the state where he has many friends and old time acquaintances.

He and his son, S. H. Rines left this afternoon for Little Falls where he will confer with friends.

INSTALL NEW LONG DISTANCE CIRCUITS

Addition of Three Lines Placed by
Bell Improves Fine
Service Here

Repeaters Installed; Office Handles
Average of 150 Long Distance
Calls Daily

In order to meet the constant demand for long distance telephone service in Brainerd and to improve the service to the number of cities and adjacent towns in this section three new long distance circuits were recently placed in service. It is announced by Henry D. Hoffmann, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.

These improvements involve the construction of 384 miles of open copper wire between Minneapolis and Little Falls, 64 miles of new copper wire between Little Falls and Brainerd, 444 miles of new copper wire between Brainerd, Crosby, McGregor and Duluth, the installation of telephone repeaters and other long distance transmission equipment.

"A telephone repeater is a device which when used in connection with long distance service keeps the voice currents from becoming weak through travelling over great distances and sends them on with renewed energy to their destination," Mr. Hoffmann explained.

WOOL WANTED — For the 1930 Pool of the Beltrami County Wool Growers Association. Wool will be received June 9th, 10th, and 11th at the Soo Freight Depot Bemidji, Minnesota. It will be graded June 12th, 13th, and 14th, and sold on the afternoon of June 14th to the highest bidder for cash. Checks in full will be mailed to all growers within a week after the sale; two cents per pound only being deducted to cover the expense of grading, handling, etc. There is no red tape, no contracts, no membership fees necessary in this association. Merely bring or ship your wool to us within dates specified and you become a member and participate in the benefits of the association. Our association is a cooperative organization of Northern Wool Growers, conducted to secure for the growers by their own efforts the largest cash returns for their wool in the shortest time. We furnish wool bags and twine upon application, use of bags being free to growers, the twine only being charged. We are Northern Headquarters also for sheep dip and sheep men's supplies. We expect to have the largest and best pool we have ever had this year. Beltrami County Wool Growers Association, C. W. Clark, manager, Bemidji, Minn. 30013Frl.

Feen-a-mint

The Chewing LAXATIVE

Chew It Like Chewing Gum

A pleasure to use. Very efficient. Children love it. No taste but that of sweet mint. The most popular laxative because it's a "satisfier." 15c and 25c.

Frank Jay Gould, now firmly enthroned as gambling czar of the universe, is going to break his seventeen-year voluntary exile and return to the United States for his first trip from France since prohibition, either in June or July. After deciding to live in France, Gould started making investments, all of which have been profitable. Many see in him a reincarnation of the old Jay Gould, with a Midas-like touch that can turn anything into gold.

WOOL WANTED—For the 1930 Pool of the Beltrami County Wool Growers Association. Wool will be received June 9th, 10th, and 11th at the Soo Freight Depot Bemidji, Minnesota. It will be graded June 12th, 13th, and 14th, and sold on the afternoon of June 14th to the highest bidder for cash. Checks in full will be mailed to all growers within a week after the sale; two cents per pound only being deducted to cover the expense of grading, handling, etc. There is no red tape, no contracts, no membership fees necessary in order to become a member of this association. Merely bring or ship your wool to us within dates specified and you become a member and participate in the benefits of the association. Our association is a cooperative organization of Northern Wool Growers, conducted to secure for the growers by their own efforts the largest cash returns for their wool in the shortest time. We furnish wool bags and twine upon application, use of bags being free to growers, the twine only being charged. We are Northern Headquarters also for sheep dip and sheep men's supplies. We expect to have the largest and best pool we have ever had this year. Beltrami County Wool Growers Association. C. W. Clark, manager, Bemidji, Minn. 30013Frl.

Free estimates gladly furnished on your flat or steep roofing. All work guaranteed.

An Amazing Success

Feen-a-mint
The Chewing LAXATIVE

Chew It Like Chewing Gum

A pleasure to use. Very efficient. Children love it. No taste but that of sweet mint. The most popular laxative because it's a "satisfier."

VIEWS of ROULETTE
PALACE at NICE in

Frank Jay Gould, now firmly enthroned as gambling czar of the universe, is going to break his seventeen-year voluntary exile and return to the United States for his first trip from France since prohibition, either in June or July. After deciding to live in France, Gould started making investments, all of which have been profitable. Many see in him a reincarnation of the old Jay Gould, with a Midas-like touch that can turn anything into gold.
